

ACCESSIBILITY

Last Updated: September 2026

The DocLively Platform is committed to ensuring digital accessibility of our website and services for all users, including individuals with disabilities. We are continuously improving the user experience and applying the relevant accessibility standards, aligning our efforts with the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG 2.1) and ADA requirements.

If you experience any difficulty in accessing any part of our Platform or notice any feature that is not fully accessible to people with disabilities, please let us know. We will make all reasonable efforts to address your concerns and accommodate your needs promptly.

- Contact Email: support@doclively.com